PETER'S PENCE COLLECTION NEXT WEEK

Next week we will take up the Peter's Pence Collection to support the Universal Church and the work of the Holy See, including helping Pope Francis to carry out his charitable works. Being Catholic ...

My children are grown and don't attend church. What do I do?

Recently, I spoke with several older couples about the challenges (and joys) of parenting adult children. One mother shared her sorrow that her son not only has fallen away from his faith, but is actively antagonistic towards the Catholic faith and to her. A father of four adult sons talked to me about the frustration of finding out that his older son (who spent years serving as an altar boy and who had once considered a vocation to the priesthood) has stopped attending Mass. Yet another woman shared the sad situation of her daughter's same sex relationship. All three of these parents, faithfully practicing Catholics, asked "What do we do now?" and "Where did we go wrong?"

I'm not an expert, but I do have some experience with parenting an adult child who has abandoned his faith. Here are some reflections that my husband and I have come up in dealing with adult children who have abandoned their faith.

1. Unconditional Love

This might seem like an obvious one, but I know some parents who've shunned adult children because they've stopped going to Mass or are engaging in immoral lifestyle choices.

My gut reaction to that is, "How are they ever going to learn to change if they don't have your example to follow?" Also, how are they going to experience God's unconditional love without a parent's unconditional love? You can love without encouraging immoral lifestyles. If a son or daughter is cohabiting, when they visit your home, separate sleeping arrangements should be in order. If you have younger children, this shows them that you don't agree with their lifestyle choices, but still love them and welcome them into your home... a home that does not condone cohabitation.

2. Pray for Your Children Every Day

This is also obvious, but a parent's prayer for his or her child is a powerful one. Our Lady is a powerful intercessor. St. Monica (whose son, St. Augustine, made immoral choices) prayed for her son's conversion (and it eventually happened!)

3. Look for Opportunities to Dialogue

This can often be awkward. Most adult children of faithful Catholics know what their parents are going to say, but sometimes it still needs to be said. Take the opportunity whenever you can to reiterate your love for them and your disagreement with their choices to live a life contrary to the Catholic faith. However, avoid engaging in conversation if you know they might be antagonistic, especially in front of other family members.

4. Be a Virtuous Example

You can teach your kids all about the faith, especially in the areas of marital sexuality, but if you are not living that faith, these truths may be lost or ignored. This also goes for even more basic virtues like patience, fortitude and hope.

5. Hope, Indeed!

I've seen adult children convert very late in life; I've witnessed imperceptibly slow conversion resulting from a child's

Ask God to fill your heart with his love, especially when you have strayed away from his path.

While God is always with us, we don't always appreciate or recognize the love he has to offer us.

In fact, often, we reject that love and choose to follow our own will. This can leave us feeling alone and isolated as we try to pursue happiness away from him. The good news is that God's love is always pursuing us. All we need to do is open our hearts to that love and invite God into our lives.

Here is a short prayer from the devotional The Glories of the Catholic Church that takes on this theme and asks God to fill our hearts with his love.

Divine love, you pursued us when we were running away from you: now that we are seeking you will you fly from us? No, for as you sought and loved us from the beginning, so will you continue to do, and will have us seek you with holy perseverance; for, without your preventing us, we would have run astray and mixed in the gulf of the world. Come, then, divine love, come, fill our hearts—they sigh after you.

experience of steadfast parents. Don't lose hope. Don't underestimate the value of your prayers for or your personal effect on them.

Parenting adult children who have fallen away from their faith can be challenging. Love them unconditionally, pray for them every day, look for opportunities to dialogue, be a good example and remain hopeful that they will return to the faith.

SHARING THE GOSPEL

Jesus sent out 72 of his followers to spread the good news about God. They were not to bring anything with them - no food, no extra clothes or shoes, not even money to spend. They were to visit strangers and completely depend on God to give them what they needed. That took a lot of faith!

Draw yourself putting a Band-Aid on your brother or sister or a friend.

PRAYER

Lord, help me heal others with kind words.

MISSION FOR THE WEEK

Each morning I will pray for doctors, nurses, and scientists who cure the sick.

DO YOU KNOW SOMEONE WHO IS ILL? WHAT DO I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT ST. ANDREW'S PRAYER LIST?

Ever wondered how sick someone needs to be to get on the prayer list or if you should be there? The answer is simple: if you need prayers for any reason, you can be on the list. If you are ill, facing surgery, have upheaval in your life, want prayers to find employment, or have another special intention, you can email it to standrewprayer@gmail.com

When it arrives, your prayer request will be sent out on the email prayer line with as much or as little information as you wish to include. Then the name of the person you'd like St. Andrew's to pray for will be added to the list published in our weekly bulletin. We are a community, a family, and as such, we care and pray for one another.

WELCOME, NEW FOLKS, TO ST. ANDREW'S!

If you are a new member of St. Andrew's, please ask Denise Jorgensen for a new parishioner info sheet. Ask anyone near you to point me out. We're glad you're here.
